Councillor Jerry Rome takes over vacated seat

Stevens steps down as AHM deputy-reeve

by Jerry Grozelle

Anson, Hindon and Minden deputy-reeve Lewis Stevens has reluctantly resigned his position on council. Stevens and his wife Jean have become co-managers of Down 'Omers, a restaurant and tavern in Oshawa, along with another couple. The move to Oshawa puts them closer to their son Jason and daughter Debbie and their families.

"It's working out pretty well for us," Stevens said. "Of course, we miss our home and friends in Minden but we'll always be Haliburton County people."

The Stevens' have their farm rented but they have retained an apartment and plan to spend as much time in Minden as possible.

"We'll be going up every week, on our days off," he said.

Stevens said one of the hardest things he had to do was to give up his council seat.

"But, you have to go where the work is," he said. "We would have liked to have stayed in Minden, but it's nice to be with our family too."

Stevens was involved in municipal politics for almost eight years. He was in his second term as deputy-reeve.

Reeve Jeanne Anthon said, "Lewis was very popular and a valuable member of council."

She said that one of the reasons for Stevens' popularity is the fact that he is very easy to talk to.

"He seemed very comfortable with everyone," she said. "He was popular with the seasonal residents as well as the local people."

Stevens was contacted at his son Jason's in Oshawa

The last item on the Anson, Hindon and Minden council agenda last Thursday morning was the appointment of a replacement to fill the vacancy left by Stevens.

Anthon explained that the position must be filled by a current member of council. She said that she had confidence in all three councillors to perform the duties of deputy-reeve.

"This is a excellent council," she said. "You are all worthy of moving up to deputy-reeve. This is a challenging time and I applaud anyone who decides to accept the challenge."

The process of filling a deputy-reeve vacancy is very well defined. The procedure involved declaring the seat vacant after formally accepting (with regret) Stevens' resignation. Nominations for the position were opened and Anthon explained that a councillor could nominate himself or another member for the position and that a seconder was not necessary.

They were asked in alphabetical order if they wished to present a nomination. Councillors Daryl Moore and Jerry Rome each nominated himself, while councillor Grant Plooard declined to nominate.

The subsequent vote saw Rome elected by a 3-1 margin.

After voting for Rome, Anthon said her decision wasn't an easy one. She

Fearrey begins fourth term as County Warden

by Jerry Grozelle

Dysart et al reeve Murray Fearrey has been chosen Warden of Haliburton County. Fearrey was unopposed at the official ceremonies at the Hyland Crest auditorium December 12.

The Dysart reeve has served as warden of the county three times before, the first time in 1974, again in 1981 and the third time in 1987.

When she nominated Fearrey, Stanhope deputy-reeve Eleanor Harrison said the county needs someone with experience and proven dedication.

The new warden admitted that this term will be his most challenging. "This council is faced with the most dramatic changes and fiscal responsibility I have ever been a part of," he said.

"During the past number of years, politicians and department heads alike did only what they had to," he said, "and that was to spend to match government subsidies and raise taxes to pay for mandated programs. Of course, this does not apply to everyone and every program."

He added that taxpayers were expected to "swallow the increases" but that they have "developed a hiatus hernia because of higher taxation" and are no longer able to swallow the increases.

"I liken it to a domestic situation," Fearrey said. "If money is not a problem, you give your child a healthy allowance and you spend freely. If you lose your job or your house payments double, or you buy a new car, your disposable income goes down and you are forced to cut accordingly."

"That's exactly where we are today. Our allowance has been cut, so we have to cut grass or take a paper route to find some resources to survive. That's where Haliburton County and its 10 municipalities have found ourselves."

Fearrey said he has heard many opinions about restructuring county and municipal governments; about amalgamation; about one tier government; and about going outside current boundaries.

"I agree, there must be immediate action," he said. "However, the cost of saving must be weighted against every new creation."

He said that a proposal for amalgamation in Hali-burton County failed because it was predicated on opinion and an absence of economic facts. The economics are available today, and it is obvious that some cost cutting measures and changes are necessary.

"In 1996, I want to lead a county council that is open; a council that is not dealing with a paradigm (pattern) paralysis; a council that is prepared to put preconceived ideas aside and sincerely work at the analysis and facts that will project our future."

In regard to budgeting, Fearrey said, "We must redefine how we do business. We are obliged to provide services in a responsive and cost effective manner."

"It is easy to say I can't do it; I have already become efficient; someone else will have to reduce. As your warden, I am here to tell you that will not be good enough. That's not what we're looking for. We will work together to find options on how we can meet our commitments and budgetary obligations."

There are alternatives to massive layoffs, but it will require a team effort by management and labour to achieve our goals," he warned. "It is time for us in local government to assess if the services provided are relevant to the needs of the community and the dollars available."

Fearrey suggested that taxpayers expect their leaders to put them first; to ensure that the future of the taxpayer is focused on the most cost efficient and affluent route. He added that County Council must be prepared to re-invent and re-engineer the government.

"I want to lead a council that will stop the delays on the hospital proposal, emergency facilities, and the renovations to Hyland Crest," he said. "We have put up with enough delays."

He told council members he would be asking for their support in delegating the responsibility of fast-tracking the hospital proposals, stating, "It is imperative that we know our complete financial future obligations. The wrong people have been leading Haliburton County over this dangerous path of delay."

Council and staff at all levels, he said, must recognize the importance of the concept that everything they do will be subject to "the litmus test." Everything from planning will be scrutinized to see if it can be done internally or if it would be cheaper and more efficient if done another way (contracted out).

"Haliburton County needs a new vision; a positive vision," he said. "I am confident that together we have the ability to achieve our goals. We will be moving back into a fine, newly renovated facility in 1996. Lets prove its value.

"If we are not prepared to chart our future, someone else will do it for us," he cautioned. "There would be little honour in that for any of us."

Dec. 11 ATV chase*Wilberforce community police get their man

By Andrew Milne

The Wilberforce community policing association has scored another one.

Volunteers of the association, say police, were instrumental in the arrest of two suspects in break and enter and theft cases in the area December 11.

Arresting officer Ken Wesley says there is no way the suspects could have been apprehended without the help of the volunteers.

"There's no way it would have happened," says Wesley.

Wesley said he is very happy with the way community policing has been working out in the Wilberforce area.

"It's been working better than I ever expected," says Wesley. "It's terrific."

The suspects were travelling through back roads and wooded areas on a stolen all-terrain vehicle (ATV). Community police association members assisted by reporting suspicious tracks and informing police of the suspects' movements.

The chase started just before 4 pm, when Wesley was dispatched to the scene of a break and enter in progress near Tory Hill. His closest backup was in Carnarvon, and blizzard conditions meant he couldn't expect them any time soon.

Travelling with Don Wilson of the community police, who was with him at the community police office when the call came in, Wesley arrived at the scene, and attempted to stop the fleeing suspects, but they got around the cruiser and escaped into the woods on the ATV.

Shortly after, Jack Ward, a volunteer member of the community police who lives in the area, noticed ATV tracks to a neighbour's cottage. Knowing the neighbours weren't home, he called the police, and remained to observe the suspects.

The suspects, leaving the scene with the ATV and a snow machine they had taken from the cottage, encountered Ward, and fled, abandoning the snow machine.

John Goverde of the community police then arrived, and was able to track the ATV to Clement Lake Road.

During this time, the suspects had stolen another snow machine, but evidently again abandoned the effort, and left it at the corner of County Road 4 and Highway 648, fleeing on the ATV towards Harcourt.

Goverde arrived, and was told by some local youths in which direction the suspects had headed. The youths also pursued on snow machines, but lost the suspects.

Constable John McDougall of the OPP then arrived, and tracked the ATV to a cottage on Cope Lake Road. Wesley and McDougall found the suspects inside the cottage, and made the arrest.

The police also thanked Al Ablett, who helped watch alternate escape routes during the pursuit.

Goverde says the secret of success in community policing is partly one of being active and organized, and mostly just one of getting people involved and alert.

Says Goverde, "We get people out there with snowmobiles and four wheelers... and we keep an eye out, and if we see tracks, we investigate... It does work if people just take some time and look around, and if they see something strange, take a number and call it in. We'll do the rest. As long as we have the eyes."

Arrested and charged with break, enter, and theft; with theft; and with possession in conjunction with the incidents are Robert Fowler, age 19, and Edward Kirkpatrick, age 22, both of Oshawa.

The two have their bail hearing today. McDougall says they have records with similar charges.

The Wilberforce association also reports that their volunteers did the annual cottage patrol November 25. The association reports they checked and tagged 730 cottages, finding seven insecure but no break-ins.

Haliburton volunteers catch carjacker

A Haliburton Community Policing volunteer helped recover a stolen car and apprehend a car jacking suspect last Wednesday. The volunteer reported a suspicious vehicle at Emmerson Lumber in Haliburton. A check of the licence number provided by the Community Policing member revealed that the car had been involved in a robbery/car jacking in Toronto the day before.

Minden OPP officers responded and the vehicle was stopped west of Haliburton on the Kashaga Drive. The driver of the vehicle, Kevin Jeremy McBurney, 18, of Scarborough was arrested and returned to Metro Toronto Police (41 Division).

The Community Policing member assisted police by positioning his vehicle in front of the suspect vehicle on Kashaga Drive so it couldn't get by.

said she lost sleep the night before thinking about how she would vote.

One of the reasons she decided to cast her vote in favour of Rome was because his financial skills would be valuable. (Rome is a retired bank manager.) She also felt his experience and expertise would be helpful at the county level.

"I also considered the popular vote in the last election," she said, adding that she hoped the deputy-reeves wouldn't be eliminated from county council.

Rome said he understands the position carries with it additional responsibility, which he is willing to accept.

Now that Jerry Rome is the deputy-reeve of Anson, Hindon and Minden, the vacancy he leaves as councillor must be filled.

An election to fill Rome's seat would cost the municipality about $20,000, so council is hoping to avoid an election if possible, but it has not been completely ruled out as an option.

Newspaper ads will be placed, requesting applications for the position. Council hopes to be able to select someone from respondents to the advertisements.

"It's going to be an awkward two years (to the end of this term of office)," Anthon said, adding that there can be no long term promises regarding anyone's political future.

She suggested that restructuring could result in amalgamation of some municipalities or it could mean a one tier government for the whole county.

"We need someone to help get us through hard times," Anthon said. "Someone who is prepared for an unusual political experience."

She added that her personal wish list for a replacement councillor would be someone who has been a long-time resident of the area and someone who has a view to the realities of the future.

Local board seeking $3.5 million for building projects*'Creative' hospital financing considered

By Andrew Milne

Two new hospital buildings/additions in Minden and Haliburton may be financed by an innovative private financing deal similar to that which financed the sewage plant expansion project in Dysart.

Under the terms of the deal, private investors would lend the board money for construction, then own the buildings for 20 years. During this period, the board would make monthly loan payments to the investors.

Owning the buildings allows the investors to draw out the federal tax credits over that time, effectively sheltering their own income. Some of these savings are passed on to the board, in the form of lower interest rates on the loan.

Such deals, though a new concept, seem to be becoming popular. The Municipality of Dysart et al made similar arrangements — through the same intermediary — for the financing of an expansion to their sewage treatment plant last year. The Dysart deal has also been used as something of a model for similar deals being proposed elsewhere in the province.

The Haliburton Highlands Health Board (HHHB), formerly the Acting Health Services Board (AHSB), heard David Ford of the Penford Corporation give a summary of the concept at its regular board meeting December 13.

Says Ford, "All that we're really interested in is getting our monthly cheque for the next twenty years. We really don't want to get involved in this, in the operation, in the design... We also hope that in 20 years' time you will exercise the option of — at the net cost of essentially a dollar — buying back the facilities. ... It's really a financial transaction, when you come right down to it. You have the same responsibilities, obligations as if you owned the facility."

Ford also said there are two options for sources of financing — large, reliable, commercial lenders, such as major banks and trust companies with whom Penford usually deals, and local investment, in which shares of the deal are sold to local parties with an interest in the facilities built.

Hugh Nichol, chair of the board's finance committee, describes the proposed transaction as very much like a mortgage.

Says Nichol, "We don't own the building, but for all intents and purposes, it's a mortgage on the building, with a 20 year payment plan."

Nichol also said there is some urgency that the board start finalizing financing arrangements soon, and that a particularly attractive feature of the deal is the relatively low interest rate — around two percent lower than comparable bond issues.

Said Nichol, "Two percent on three and a half million dollars is $40,000 a year. I think we have to look at all possibilities."

Nichol added that Penford has offered a two-year opportunity from the moment the money has been lent for the board to do traditional community fundraising to reduce the debt. This is attractive, he says, because it will allow the board to start construction and then do fundraising, and earlier experiences suggest that fundraising is much easier and more successful once construction has begun.

Foster Loucks, executive director for the board, says he has been in touch with the board's legal counsel, and that the main concern so far seems to be that the deal is still a fairly new and somewhat untested procedure.

"The concern was," says Loucks, "that there isn't a lot of precedent for this kind of deal yet."

Loucks said the lawyers would be consulting with tax lawyers to review the relevant legislation.

A condition of the sale, says Nichol, is that the board would be required to have someone — most likely the county of Haliburton — underwrite the loan.

The board will soon be responsible for hospital care throughout the county of Haliburton, and intends to build or renovate hospital facilities in the villages of Minden and Haliburton, a capital project assumed so far

Board renamed

The Acting Health Services Board has officially named itself.

The board needs an official name for legal documents related to its impending incorporation. The current board is an acting board only, and is not incorporated.

The incorporated board will be known as the Hali-burton Highlands Health Board (HHHB). The name will be official as of incorporation, something which must take place before the organization can take over operation of hospital facilities.

The Times will henceforth be referring to the board — acting or otherwise — only by the new name. It is our sincere hope that this will not significantly add to reader confusion over the profusion of boards, committees, and other organizations already involved in health care stories.

Horseshoe Lake bridge open — already

The Horseshoe Lake Road bridge is open. The project deadline was actually in October, and the job still isn't quite finished. The bridge is, however, open. The contractor will be returning in the summer to finish.

The upgrading was delayed by inclement weather — rain in October, and heavy snows in November — and by difficulties in obtaining a replacement support beam.

The original structure, a single-lane bridge over the narrows between Mountain Lake and Horseshoe Lake, was built in 1923. The refurbishment, which includes repairs to the support beams and bridge platform, cost $162,000.

Board tells county: budget for Hyland Crest operations

to cost around $10.5 million. The board currently has around $1 million available to it for capital projects, and approximately another $6 million will be picked up by the province.

The remaining $3.5 million is the challenge of the moment. The board is to be responsible for raising it, but as a newly incorporated board, it has no established financial record, no credit history, and no collateral on which to borrow.

Board members, though interested in the Penford proposal, expressed some concern that other sources of financing had not yet been considered, and requested that other, more traditional lenders be formally approached, at least for comparison purposes.

Hyland Crest

The board also began to discuss, briefly, the handling of the Hyland Crest long-term care facility, currently run by the County of Haliburton.

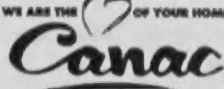

The board plans, in the long run, to absorb the facility, and build an adjacent expansion, to serve as Minden's acute care facility, replacing the current Minden hospital.

Former county warden Ross Rabjohn was present to ask of the board whether the county should expect to budget to run the facility for all of the next fiscal year. The board responded that they do not expect to absorb operation of the facility in the coming fiscal year.

The Ministry of Health (MOH) seems to be encouraging the board to absorb the Minden and Haliburton hospital facilities in April of 1996, at the end of the current fiscal year. Board members expect to have their hands full arranging incorporation, preparing for this transaction, and arranging financing for the capital projects.

Rabjohn also informed the board that there may be a procedural complication for the county, should it divest itself of Hyland Crest. Building a long-term care facility, said Rabjohn, was one of the criteria the county was required to meet by the provincial government before the county could be incorporated. It is quite possible, he continued, that this would create difficulties for the county, should it divest itself of Hyland Crest.

To everyone who knows him, Tim Heming is someone special

Ontario Junior Citizen of the Year

Tim Heming sits in his wheelchair in his new home in Huntsville listening carefully as his mother Laura and sister Kate read the letters that accompanied his nomination for Ontario Junior Citizen of the Year. His brother Jesse and father Rob hover nearby. He seems a bit uncertain about how to respond to the outpouring of adulation contained in the documents describing him and his life. But he is also curious, as any eleven year old would be, to learn what his grandmother, or his former teaching assistant or his best friend wrote about him.

This self-effacing nature is just one of the many qualities mentioned in the sheaf of papers on the table. Other words reach out from the pages, "indomitable spirit, quirky sense of humour, strong willed, disarming, sensitive, intuitive, pluck". For a boy of eleven who has beaten the doctors at their predictions, who has been through torments that few of will ever know and who always emerges on the sunny side of life, it is a bit bewildering to be told that just getting on with life, as he has, is especially noteworthy.

There was little question in the minds of his nominator and those who supported his nomination that what Tim Heming has achieved is indeed worthy of note and recognition. That message obviously also reached the members of the Ontario Community Newspaper Association panel when they considered the nearly 200 nominations and chose Tim as one of twelve young people in the province to receive the Ontario Junior Citizen of the Year Award. The awards, coordinated by weekly newspapers throughout the province and sponsored by Bell Canada, are presented each year at the OCNA annual convention.

They were created to recognize young people between the ages of 6 and 18 who are outstanding citizens of this province. In the past the honour has been presented to young people who performed acts of bravery, individuals who have overcome handicaps and young people who have demonstrated a sense of community and citizenship. (Details about the other recipients of this year's award are included in a separate article on page 7.)

Tim and his family will be the guests of the association and Bell Canada in Toronto at the end of March. The awards will be presented by Ontario's Lieutenant Governor Henry Jackman. Tim will receive a commemorative plaque, a gold lapel pin, $200, and have a family portrait taken with the Lieutenant Governor.

Tim and his family recently moved to Huntsville after living near Minden since 1989. However, just before leaving the community, a neighbour in the Scotts Dam area, Sheri Hawkins, noticed the promotion for the Ontario Junior Citizen Award in The Times and felt Tim would be an excellent candidate. "When I saw the ad for the award, I thought of him instantly. Tim is a great kid. He is always cheerful and, after all he has been through, I have never heard one word of complaint from him." Hawkins said the youngster serves as an inspiration for a lot of people. "I am extremely glad he won. He really deserves it."

Tim was born in February 1984 with spina bifida, a congenital birth defect which results in the incomplete development of the spinal cord. As a result of the spina bifida Tim also developed hydrocephalus, excess fluid on the brain.

From his birth, doctors offered little hope for Tim.

However, even as an infant Tim's spirit and will to live emerged. Because of his brain deformity, his ability to understand what he was hearing and translate that into speech was impaired. The spina bifida left him paralysed from the chest down. However, he demonstrated a zest for life. His extended family, friends and the special needs home workers lavished him with love and stimulation.

Laura's mother, Ruth Thout, noted in her letter of support, "From the earliest age, he seemed to understand and enjoy the songs that were sung to him and the stories told to him during long walks in his stroller. On one walk I gave him a magnolia blossom to touch and I and old."

It would be no exaggeration to suggest what this eleven year old has been through is worthy of an award itself. But it isn't only the way he has dealt with his physical problems that has earned him this respect and admiration. Tim Heming earns that respect by who he is and the impact he has on people. Sure, initially it is impossible not to notice his physical impairments, but it doesn't take long for these to fade and the strength of his character and personality to come shining through.

For example during his recent hospitalization Laura describes an incident which occurred when Tim heard another young patient down the hall who was in distress and crying out. The young man's parents were not with him. Laura explains, "Tim arranged to have me move his bed so he could be with this boy until he had calmed down. During his stay they watched televised baseball games together and Tim would check on his new friend immediately after waking each day. He helped by getting the patient water, and alerting the staff when he needed assistance. When the boy's parents arrived for a visit, Tim wheeled up to them, introduced himself and told them how brave their 15 year old son had been."

From the many letters accompanying his nomination emerges a picture of a child who is intent on getting the most out of life.

His grandmother, Ruth Thout, of Waterloo recalls, "During the first days following his birth, the prognosis was almost 'nil'...we were told he would be both blind and deaf. Tim has proven through his tremendous courage how wrong those doctors were." She notes he has a finely honed sense of humour and a keen interest in sports especially the Toronto Blue Jays and Maple Leafs. His interest in the sports teams has recently resulted in a visit to the Gardens in Toronto to watch a Leafs' game, thanks to arrangements made by Minden resident Harris Steele. On that occasion, Tim and his father also had an opportunity to meet the players in the Leafs' dressing room, talking with such stars as Doug Gilmore and Felix Potvin. The Leafs' goalie presented the youngster with an autographed goalie stick.

Tim has touched the lives of many people in the Highlands. Artist and author Mary Wallace asked Tim to be one of a number of children to pose for photographs for a children's costume book she had written. She commented, "When I first met Tim I mostly saw all of his handicaps and the overwhelming challenges he had to face. Now I see Tim as a beautiful child, living a rich and graceful life. Tim has touched and taught many who know him that life is to be celebrated and appreciated in whatever form it comes to us."

Family friend Jo-Anne Howard noted that Tim had been an active member, with her son, of the community's Beaver Colony and Cub Pack. "Tim was willing to participate in everything from games like dodge-ball (very tricky in a wheel chair) to outings, crafts and rallies. He also enjoys hanging out with 'the boys' in town or down at the dock."

One of Tim's many friends, Dustin Howard, wrote, "I think Tim should get this award because he tries to do remember the happy look on his face as he pinched and felt it."

Tim confounded the doctors and their limited prognosis. At the age of four and half, Tim spontaneously started to speak, making his oral entrance into the world by asking his father, "Watcha doin' Dad?"

At the time Rob was working during the summer months at Bark Lake. The family moved to the area for several summers, and eventually became permanent residents when Rob was hired as camp director.

Tim also suffers from a life-threatening brain deformity known as Arnold Chiari malformation. Doctors performed surgery last year in an attempt to relieve the pressure on the brain stem caused by the malformation. They discovered that half of his brain was in fact in his neck.

This condition made it difficult for him to swallow, resulted in neck and throat spasms and in reduced use of his right arm and hand.

The operation left him weakened, he developed pneumonia and lost a great deal of weight. As a result of the weight loss his skin was being stressed in places where his bones were pressing against his chest brace. A gastric tube was inserted last summer to assist in his feeding, which helped him to regain and retain his weight.

It has also been discovered that he has a syringomyelia in his mid back which is creating pressure on his spinal cord.

Next month he returns to the hospital for spinal reconstructive surgery.

Touched many in the community

His mother describes his will to live as "incredibly strong." She adds, "It has been said many times that his life is a miracle, however, it wasn't until the community approached me about this nomination that I realized how much he had touched the lives of people, young things that are hard for him to do. He does not feel sorry for himself when he can't do it. I enjoy being Tim's friend because he is very special and he likes me for who I am and I like him for who he is. He is always doing nice things for other people."

Much of the support for his nomination came from the staff at Archie Stouffer Elementary School. All members of the staff signed a letter endorsing Tim for the award.

Educational assistant Sue Payne, who worked closely with Tim every day during the past few years, provided an insight into the impact this young man had on people around him. She wrote, "I started working with Timmy five years ago. This little boy always gave 110% no matter if he was doing mathematics, physiotherapy or just playing with his friends. He always had a great concern for others....I have been ill myself for the past month and during my illness, this caring little boy called to see how I was feeling. He ended our phone call with a big kiss and 'I love you'. Not many children can pull your heart strings like that."

"Probably the best way to describe the impact Tim had on this school is to note that everyone, staff and students, in this school of 700 knew him," Peter Forgrave principal of Archie Stouffer Elementary School said last week. "He was known by everyone at this school and had an effect on just about everyone's life." The principal noted that while it was easier for adults to express in words the impact Tim had on their lives, his fellow students simply knew he was good person and friend.

Former principal McKay Brydon noted that Tim was an excellent example of the positive things that can emerge from an inclusive education system in which children of all abilities are brought together in a caring and understanding environment. Brydon said that one of the things Tim taught the community at Archie Stouffer was to discover the person beyond the disabilities. "The fact that he needed a wheel chair no more defined who he was than the fact that most of use our legs to get around says who we are," he commented.

Family friend Lyse Cazabon-Keaney wrote, "It is with great joy I support this nomination. Yet somehow, now that I attempt to put into words thoughts that seemed so clear in my mind, the task appears impossible...I found him to be immediately disarming...Tim has a natural ability to put one at ease. He does not permit one moment of pity or awkwardness... these words are not in his vocabulary... Tim has a very engaging personality.... he is bright and intuitive and incredibly sensitive. Perhaps what strikes me most about Tim is his strength and courage. He knows he can do anything he sets his mind to. It is therefore with strength and pride that he meets life's daily challenges.... Tim is a loving, loveable young man whose strength and courage have made a mark on my family."

There is little doubt that Tim Heming has touched the lives of many people in this community. The outpouring of love contained in the nomination is simply a reflection of everything he has given those with whom he has come in contact. Proud parents Rob and Laura Heming are delighted by the recognition he has received and candidly admit that through the struggles they have shared with their son, they too have learned from him. "He's taught us a lot about life and living," Rob said. "We have often talked about life," Laura commented. "Tim has wanted to know why he is like he is and we explain that he is indeed special and because of who he is, he has touched so many people in a special way."

The letters on the kitchen table attest to that as do the many people who have, at sometime in their lives, had the privilege of knowing Tim Heming.

The province's best

The following is the press release issued by the Ontario Community Newspapers Association announcing the selection of this year's recipients of the Ontario Junior Citizen of the Year award. Former Minden Resident Tim Heming is among those selected.

Ontario Community Newspapers Association (OCNA) president Paul Winkler announced the recipients of the Ontario Junior Citizen of the Year Awards on December 11 after they were chosen from among 193 nominations submitted through OCNA member newspapers across the province.

The Oakville-based OCNA, which represents more than 265 community newspapers in Ontario and the Northwest Territories, has honoured Ontario's Junior Citizens since 1981, with Bell Canada as co-sponsor once again for 1995. Young people ages six to 18 are recognized for their courage, ingenuity, resourcefulness, initiative, leadership, fortitude and community service.

The award recipients and their families will be guests of Bell Canada and OCNA at an awards ceremony at the Toronto Airport Marriott Hotel on Friday, March 29, 1996. The awards will be presented by Ontario's Lieutenant Governor, the Honourable Henry Jackman, and each recipient will receive $200, a commemorative plaque, a gold lapel pin and a family portrait with the Lieutenant Governor.

Mr. Winkler praised the award recipients and all other nominees, saying, "Through their acts of courage, determination, selflessness and leadership, these young people have become outstanding citizens and examples for all Ontarians."

OCNA and Bell Canada are proud we can publicly acknowledge their good deeds."

The 1995 Junior Citizens are:

* Timothy Heming, 11, of Minden, for his indomitable spirit in facing the challenges of Spina Bifida. He cheerfully meets life head-on involving himself in school and town activities, showing others that life is to be celebrated fully. His courage and disarming sense of humour have made him a valued member of his community.

* Carl Rothfels, 18, of Pefferlaw, for his dedicated commitment to preserving the environment and his contributions to his community. He has helped to find alternatives to landfill sites in his area, participated in river clean-ups and waste reduction. He also raises funds for cancer research, the World Wildlife Foundation and food banks. He is on the Mayor's Advisory Council which addresses the needs of local youth. His quiet assurance and mature approach make him a natural leader to his peers.

* Sara Trought, 18, of Unionville, for her near-miraculous recovery after a freight train collided with a truck in which she was a passenger. Despite a coma, serious head injuries, collapsed lung and many broken bones, Sara fought her way back and is far along the path to reclaiming her track star status. Her battle for life is a courageous portrayal of perseverance.

* Samantha Walker, 12, of Peterborough, for pulling her school and community together to plant a Tulip Tribute Garden as part of the "Canada Remembers" remembrance ceremonies. Her impressive endeavours have heightened her peers' pride and appreciation for the wartime sacrifices of all Canadians.

* Cory Wright, 18, of Aurora, for his outstanding leadership qualities. He is involved in numerous school activities and community services, such as spending his summers as a camp counselor and friend to fatherless boys. He does not let Cerebral Palsy stand in the way of his generosity and commitment to others. His upbeat and positive attitude is an inspiration to all.

* Katie Monteith, 11, of Waterloo, for helping to fulfill the dreams of chronically and terminally ill children. For three years she has organized and implemented neighbourhood Fun Fairs, with proceeds going to the Sunshine Foundation. Her concern for others and "I want to help" attitude are perfect examples of selfless charity and goodwill.

* Julia Allore, 18, of Tamworth, for her steadfast determination in overcoming acute lymphoblastic leukemia. In spite of double hip replacements, she volunteers her time at local hospitals, for cancer fund-raising, school peer counselling and tutoring, and still finds time for her own jewelry design business. Julia shows responsibility and initiative beyond her years.

* Jesse Davidson, 15, of London, for his heroic actions in raising awareness of the need for gene research. In spite of having Duchesne Muscular Dystrophy, he made a courageous trek across Ontario in his wheelchair, touching the hearts of everyone in the communities he passed through. "Jesse's Journey" continues to make an inspirational difference to physically challenged people everywhere.

* Michelle Dunk, 18, of Guelph, for her superb contributions as supervisor of Guelph General Hospital's teen volunteer program. For six years she has donated her time and energy bringing the human touch to patients and families. She also raises money for the hospital foundation and co-ordinates donations for her church. She is a wonderful role model for her fellow teens.

* Kristen Hayes, 12, of Markham. Diagnosed at birth with Osteogenesis Imperfecta (brittle bones), Kristen has endured many surgeries and suffered over 30 fractures since then. However, this self-assured young lady has not let any barriers deter her. As 1995 Easter Seal Tammy, she promotes awareness of the needs of physically challenged people. Although fragile in body, Kristen has strength of character that has earned her the admiration and respect of all who meet her.

* Daniel Rundle, 17, of Sioux Lookout, for his exemplary commitment to social and recreational community concerns. This impressive young man uses his leadership and communications skills to encourage anti-racism, promoting harmony and tolerance. He was also instrumental in establishing a youth centre. Daniel's caring attitude benefits his entire community.

* Preston Hiscock, 15, of Espanola, for his unfailing devotion and friendship. This caring and compassionate young man stood by his friend Angel's side as she battled cancer, his special love reassuring and comforting her during her final days. Preston has shown others the true meaning of loyalty.

An early Christmas

Our Christmas present arrived early this year with the announcement December 8 that Tim Heming had been selected one of 12 young people in the province to be named an Ontario Junior Citizen of the Year.

We have had the pleasure of knowing Tim for the past six years during which time we have been amazed by the young man's indomitable spirit and pluck. He has constantly astounded medical experts with his ability to seemingly ignore their prognosis and rise above all the dire predictions.

Knowing what this young man has been through medically only adds to our admiration and respect for him as an individual. Despite difficult and trying surgical interventions, painful treatments and a life in which wheels have replaced legs Tim has always found the brighter side to his existence. Armed with a quick smile and often catching people off-guard with his wit and sense of humour, Tim has demonstrated time and again that people should never be judged by appearance alone.

This has certainly been his greatest gift to the students and staff at Archie Stouffer Elementary School and those of us fortunate enough to have met him. We know him for the person he is, not for his disabilities.

Tim is a most deserving recipient of the recognition provided by the Ontario Junior Citizen Award program. Congratulations to him and thank you, Tim, for enriching our lives.

Noise bylaw does work

Editor:

In a court case heard in Minden December 5, a neighbour pleaded guilty to his dogs barking and disturbing the peace. He was fined $100 for the first offence.

Much credit goes to two Stanhope councillors, Murray Daniels and Jim Hicks, whose efforts, after months of prodding the administration end of the Stanhope staff to lay charges against a ratepayer, whose two chained-up barking dogs have made residing near them a living hell, have finally come to fruition.

The bylaw has proved to be effective. The ratepayer has pleaded guilty and disposed of one of the offending dogs and reduced his noise pollution by 80% by exercising responsible control. The township's letter to me says they are willing to control the problem, so others who are bothered by the same problem should give the office a call at 489-2379.

The dog's owner stated in court that he had been "picked on" as many other dogs in the neighbourhood were barking. He is right about the other dogs barking in a continuous and unnecessary manner and now that he is again a law-abiding ratepayer, he can exercise his right to call the township and have the offenders charged and the bliss before he moved here may return.

We hold no animosity toward our neighbours, and wish only that they respect other people's right to have a peaceful existence.

To those who have thumbed their noses at the township's bylaw in the past and wish to continue, be prepared to pay because the bylaw is effective!

We must work together to save health services

Editor:

I have been following for some time the cut-back problems facing the Minden area hospital and resident service.

Although I am not at present a resident of Haliburton County, my family and I have had property in the area for many years. We do plan to reside in the area very soon and operate a business.

The elimination of this necessary service will have a major impact on all residents, young and old, as well as new residents to the area. The economic development of the area will be hampered by the action now being taken by our governing body.

We must provide this most necessary service to the area for business, our seniors and all residents. We are all aware that cut-backs are necessary in most areas of our daily lives and services will have to be adjusted to allow this to happen.

My main concern with these cuts is they are not being looked at on an individual basis with consideration being given to their importance to a particular area and need.

The Minden Hospital is a very necessary and needed service to the region. Its geographical location in the county with the main arterial roads running through the community should assure this service is restored immediately for our residents, seniors, cottage owners, business operators and the many tourists who visit the area.

This problem should be tackled head on by our elected officials, both federal and provincial, as well as the reeves in all of Haliburton County.

This services should be restored to 24 hours a day, 12 months of the year for the benefit of residents and visitors alike. There are still many areas of provincial control that need cuts more than this great area.

So, let's get together with our elected officials as well as the members of the political parties, reeves and make sure we continue to have local emergency service... a service we deserve. It is our elected officials who must stand up and be counted if we are to change the provincial thinking that seems to lack in real concern for the people they represent in our area.

Let's get together and resolve this problem.

William Jordan,
Ashburn, Ont.

Why not cut separate schools?

Editor:

In the aftershock of the Harris government's drastic cuts to funding of valuable social, medical and cultural programs, we might endorse a dose of cold reality being administered to a society which has consumed more than it could afford. But why, in the great clean-up, did the Tories retain the separate school system? Religious privilege stands nakedly visible while valuable services grope for a shred of security. This rank injustice offends human values and destroys the equitable distribution of public dollars.

Ontario premiers and education ministers, in succession have claimed that the Canadian Constitution renders them powerless to remove this expensive, self-serving, ostentatious privilege. But the Constitution did not leave the society shackled forever to the cleavage between Roman Catholics and Protestants.

Using a province's absolute power over education, Manitoba abolished its separate schools through a constitutional provision similar to Ontario's Section 93. Newfoundland is abolishing its multi-denominational school system with a change in the Constitution. These are legal precedents which offer workable alternatives for Ontario.

In an omnibus bill introduced simultaneously with the mini budget on November 29, many sweeping changes would have been made with little or no public consultation. If the Tories can justify the use of such draconian legislation, they can also institute one public system of education in which there is no remaining vestige of ecclesiastical power. It is not an injustice to Roman Catholics to require them to practise their faith as others do—i.e. in their homes, churches and voluntary institutions. They would lose exclusive political status and power, but, at over $250 million a year to maintain, they would lose a privilege which Ontario cannot afford. Their pain would be no different than that of others.

Seasons Greetings

Where is Willie's wife?

Want to see the world's greatest collection of Mack Trucks? Then hie yourself off to Hillsborough, New Hampshire. That's where Dick Keep lives. With his Mack Truck collection — some 90 different models, going all the way back to 1916.

If it's used oil rags you want to see, wangle an invite to Ed Habeman's basement, in Tama, Iowa. Ed has some 1300 used oil rags, all washed and neatly folded in piles.

Californian Walter Cavanaugh has a massive collection of credit cards — 1,356 in all. And he keeps them in the world's largest wallet. It is custom made and 250 feet long.

John Ahrens of New Jersey only carries a Visa card, but he uses it regularly to buy beer in cans. He has some 15,000 cans — all different. And all empty.

Some folks collect stamps. Others collect Toby jugs or tea cups. But you have to wonder what it is that makes so many of us start piling up mounds of usually fairly forgettable stuff—just for the sake of collecting it.

The Collecting Bug is a powerful

one. I bet if we could travel back in time we'd find some Cro Magnon crouched in a cave, polishing his collection of sea shells or sabre toothed tiger incisors.

Some people go for ball collections. I don't mean collecting balls, I mean collecting balls of things. Things like, well, the giant ball that Jesse S. James has in his basement in Maywood, California. For the past 40 years, Jesse has been collecting bits of barbed wire and adding them to his ever-burgeoning prickly ball of steel.

Net worth? Nada—except to Jesse S. James.

Other people collect balls of tin foil. Or cigarette wrappers. Or shoelaces.

And there's string, of course. J.C. Payne of Texas earned a mention in the Guinness Book of Records for his string ball. It measures 13 feet, two and a half inches in diameter.

And then there is Wilhelm Steiner. Willie collects string too—or used to, in his house in Genthin, Germany. Like many collectors Willie was a tad obsessive about his hobby. His wife hated the string ball. Told Willie she would leave him if he didn't dump it.

Decision time. Willie had to choose between his wife and his string ball.

Black'n White

by Arthur Black

Then, just as suddenly as the crisis erupted, it was over.

Mrs. Steiner disappeared and Willie became even more obsessive about his ball of string.

And the ball grew. From six feet to seven feet in diameter. Then to eight feet. Steiner started winning prizes for his collection. He entered his ball in the German National String Collecting Competition. A fork lift manoeuvred the ball out of his house, across town and into the exhibition hall where the judging was to take place.

Willie's ball of string dwarfed all the other entries. He was a shoo-in for first prize.

Until the other contestants smelled something fishy.

Well, not fishy exactly—but definitely off.

The German police were called. They walked around Willie's ball sniffing suspiciously. Then one of the officers grabbed a loose end of string on the ball and started tugging. Several hours later the ball was unwound. And everybody knew two facts.

They knew why Willie's ball had grown so prodigiously in the past few months, and they knew the whereabouts of Mrs. Steiner.

Her mummified body was curled up in the middle of the ball.

Wilhelm Steiner had murdered his wife, following their last disagreement over...his string collecting.

Willie is now at a new address, living in a room too small to accommodate his beloved ball of string—even if it wasn't Exhibit A in his murder trial. He is reported to be very depressed.

It is not the loss of his wife that bothers him. It's not even the life prison term he faces. What bugs Willie is the fact that he is separated forever from his coveted ball of string.

Nothing matters to him, now that his chance of being World String Collecting Champion has been destroyed, says a police inspector. It was the only thing he ever wanted to do.

Costs delaying 9-1-1 implementation

By Jerry Grozelle

The 9-1-1 service is not likely to be available in Haliburton County in the near future. The costs associated with the implementation of the service are far more than a few cents added each month to telephone bills in the county.

A report was presented to Haliburton County Council at last week's meeting, outlining the associated costs, benefits and problems. The 9-1-1 Committee also provided recommendations for a three-stage process of implementing the service.

The top priority in setting up a 9-1-1 service is civic addressing. Every lot in the county must have an address and an identification number. That includes vacant lots, since many of them will eventually have homes built on them.

Haliburton County engineer Les Shepherd, chaired the 9-1-1 Committee. He is responsible for the majority of the material in the report. Shepherd said that there will have to be a designated address every 10 metres and each address must have a sign clearly identifying it.

The signage must also be uniform throughout the county. Shepherd explained that if all the lots are numbered beginning at the eastern end of a road, for example, it will be easier for emergency personnel to find a particular address. If an ambulance is directed to lot 45 on any given road, the driver will know that the location is 450 metres (almost half a kilometre) from the starting point of the numbering system.

Civic addressing can be as important as the 9-1-1 service itself in helping emergency personnel, whether it be ambulance, fire or police, to get to the scene of an emergency as quickly as possible. It is also a valuable asset to municipal staff, delivery and service people and visitors to the area.

A cost analysis shows that the total cost to install signs on all county roads would be $300,390, based on a sign cost of $20 each. If the number of households is used as a basis for calculations, the cost estimate increases to nearly $417,000 (20,000 households at $20 each for signs and another $16,800 for mapping of the 1,178 kilometres of road).

Those figures do not include any of the private roads in the county.

If property owners were to assume the cost of the signs, the costs to the county would be reduced significantly.

Some of the government funding programs that other municipalities have been able to tap into are no longer available for implementation of the 9-1-1 system. Bell Canada assisted financially with some of the earlier 9-1-1 projects, but has since stopped offering such assistance.

Recommendations

The 9-1-1 Committee recommended that civic addressing and 9-1-1 be considered as two distinct, beneficial systems. The civic addressing system would ensure ease of locating a residence, for both emergency

The annual J.O. Jackson Memorial Curling Bonspiel is scheduled for December 27 at the Minden Curling Club

HE SCORES! Ian Clements (21) scores the last goal of the game for the Redmen as they defeated the Lakefield Tigers 5-1 in Kawartha High School Hockey League play in Haliburton December 13.

Redmen tame Tigers with 5-1 victory

A much needed win was added to the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School Redmen hockey team's record Wednesday when they played host to the Lakefield Tigers.

The Redmen spotted the Tigers a goal in the first period, but that was the only goal they gave up all game. Haliburton notched two markers in the second frame and added three more in the third for 5-1 victory.

Jackie Morrison scored the equalizer at 2:38 of the second period, from Dennis Woods and Andrew McKelvey. A minute and seven seconds later, Josh Burk netted what proved to be the game winner. Curtis Reynolds and Matt Burk assisted.

Josh Burk scored two more in the third to round out his hat trick. The first, at the 3:28 mark, was assisted by Morrison and Bill Dovell. Haliburton was on the power play and it took just 11 seconds to cash in on the man advantage situation. Burk's second of the period was an unassisted marker with 6:17 remaining.

Novices win two more

Two out-of-town games resulted in a pair of wins for the Minden OMHA novice Monarchs.

The Monarchs travelled to Beaverton December 8, skating to a 4-2 win over their hosts.

After a scoreless first period, the Monarchs notched two unanswered markers in the second frame. Kolt Smith opened the scoring two and a half minutes into the period, assisted by Jason Lyddiatt and Justin Horsley. Evan Kernohan made it 2-0 with 42 seconds left in the frame on a setup from Lyddiatt and Mark Fisher.

Kernohan's second goal, early in the third, put the Monarchs in front 3-0. David Petch and Lyddiatt assisted.

Beaverton made a game of it, scoring two in a row to draw within striking distance. But Smith added an insurance marker with 38 seconds left and the Monarchs added two points to their season total.

The Monarchs took the short drive to Haliburton December 10 and came home with a 5-2 win over the Huskies.

Minden took control with two goals in the first and two in the second for a 4-0 lead going into the third.

Haliburton netted two replies in the third, with the Monarchs adding one to the visitors' side of the scoreboard.

Kernohan was the big gun for the Monarchs, scoring four of the five goals. Darrin Brown was the other marksman. Ryan Vaters helped the Minden cause with two assists, while Smith, Horsley and Andrew Bull had one each.

Ingram nets four goals in Sid Stamp Fuels win over Kountry Double D

by Jerry Grozelle

Three Minden Men's Hockey Association games were played December but only one of the six teams recorded a win. The first and third games of the evening ended in ties.

Home 7, Hartwick 7

Hartwick Construction had to scramble to salvage a 7-7 tie with Home Hardware in the first game of the night. The Home squad held a 4-3 advantage at the end of the first half and increased the lead to 7-3 before the Hartwick crew started on the come-back trail. Four consecutive goals put Hartwick back on even terms and that's how the game ended.

Charlie Teljeur scored two of the Home Hardware goals, with Gary Harrison, Dave Hartwick, Dwayne Warburton, Ben Manuge and Ron May adding one apiece. Teljeur, Harrison and Clarke Craig each had a pair of assists. May, Hartwick, Peter Allore and Tom Miscio helped the cause with one assist each.

Dave Dollo and Scott Nesbitt notched two goals each for Hartwick Construction. Scott Hamilton, Kevin Hamilton and Greg Hurtle added singles. Eldon Bull notched three assists. Hurtle, Dean Sisson, Dollo and Scott Hamilton had two apiece, with Nesbitt, Bill Hogg and Kevin Hamilton picking up one each.

Stamp 9, KDD 2

Sid Stamp Fuels romped to a 9-2 victory over Kountry Double D in the second game. The Stamp crew outscored KDD 5-1 in the first half and 4-1 in the second.

Ivan Ingram paced the Stamp attack with four goals. Jeff Howe notched a hat trick and singles went to Dennis McKee and Mark Thompson. McKee and Howe picked up three assists each. Ingram and John Teljeur added two each and Bern Berry and Scott Bayley had one apiece.

Spade Stamp and Newfer Burke were the KDD snipers. Paul Mayo, Ed Gibbons, Wyatt Nesbitt and Monty Miscio notched one assist each.

Times 5, Westside 5

A four-goal lead isn't enough in the Minden Men's Hockey Association, as The Times squad found out in the late game against Westside Jug City. The Times led 3-1 at the end of the first half and went ahead 5-1 early in the second. But Westside rebounded with four unanswered goals to earn a point with the 5-5 tie.

Craig Smith scored twice for The Times, with Jamie Dollo, Andy Schollig and Craig Crowe netting one apiece. Dollo was involved in all the scoring for the Times team, assisting on the other four markers. Dave Ward, John Ballantyne Smith and Dave Hounsell notched single assists.

Kim Hamilton led the Westside scoring with two goals. Tom Haley, Andy Campbell and Kent Taylor were the other sharpshooters. Assists went to John Stephenson (2), Hamilton (2), Doug Schell (2), John Walden (1) and Haley (1).

Minden tykes win B Championship

In spite of the weather on December 9, the Minden tyke A Monarchs went to Bobcaygeon to participate in a tournament.

Although the team suffered its first loss of the season, it came home with the B division championship.

The Monarchs were edged 4-2 in their opening game against Lindsay. But, after that, they were unbeatable.

Game two saw the Monarchs blank Ops 2-0. That win put Minden into the B division final against the Wilberforce Rockets.

Minden came out on top in the final by a 3-1 margin.

Scorers over the three games were Cody Mills, Gavin Hicks, Sherri Walker and Justin McKelvey.

Minden's regular goaltender was unable to play during the tournament so Travis Walker and Kody Smith filled in between the pipes. Both boys did a great job of keeping the Monarchs in the game when it looked like they might come home empty handed.

Novice A Monarchs win B title

by Jerry Grozelle

Minden's OMHA novice Monarchs know how to give their coaches grey hair and cause supporters to bite their nails. That's what they did at a novice tournament in Beaverton recently.

The Monarchs played four games at the tournament and after losing the first two, they won the next two, both in overtime, to earn the B division championship.

In their opener, the Monarchs gave up a 2-0 decision to King City.

Game two saw the Monarchs bow to Beaverton by a 6-3 margin. Jason Lyddiatt, Kolt Smith and Matt Allore were the Minden snipers, with assists from Darrin Brown, Justin Horsley, Jeremy Upton, Evan Kernohan and Ryan Vaters (one each).

Game three was crucial to Minden's chances of advancing to the B final. Time was ticking away late in the third period with the Monarchs down 4-3 to Beaverton. With seven seconds left in the third period, Evan Kernohan scored his second of the game to tie it up and send the contest into overtime. Kolt Smith assisted.

Kernohan had scored the first Minden goal, assisted by Matt Allore. Smith notched the second goal for the Monarchs, from Kernohan and Andrew Bull and the third marker was notched by Mark Fisher, from Smith.

The first overtime period was almost over when Kernohan struck again, rounding out his hat trick and giving the Monarchs a berth in the B championship final. Smith picked up his third assist on the game winner.

That was nail-biter number one.

The B final pitted Minden against Gravenhurst. The Monarchs couldn't get more than a goal ahead of Gravenhurst throughout the game. Every time the Monarchs would take the lead, the opposition would get one back. At the end of three periods, the score was deadlocked at 4-4.

Smith opened the scoring for the Monarchs on an unassisted effort. Fisher notched the second goal, from Cory Simms and Kernohan. Horsley was the marksman on Minden's third tally, pulling the trigger on a setup from Kernohan. The fourth marker was netted by Kernohan, from Vaters.

Kernohan was the sharpshooter again in the B championship final, scoring the title winner on a setup from Smith and Fisher.

OMHA midget hockey*Minden edged 4-3 by Omemee

Losing by a single goal can be harder to accept than giving up a game by two or more. The Minden Midget OMHA Monarchs were forced to accept a one-goal loss in Omemee on December 13.

The game was tied at 3-3 going into the third period and in the final 15 minutes, the Omemee squad scored an unanswered marker to earn the 4-3 win.

Minden played catch-up hockey all game. The home team took a 1-0 lead in the first period, before Tom Bagshaw notched an unassisted goal to tie it up at the 5:10 mark.

It took Omemee just 22 seconds to regain the lead. With 21 seconds left in the period, Marty Dettman got the Monarchs back on even terms, unassisted.

Omemee went ahead for the third time midway through the second frame.

Fifty-seven seconds remained in the second when Curtis Fielding scored to tie it up again. Dave Raback assisted.

The home team managed to keep the Monarchs off the scoreboard in the third, while adding one to its own tally for the win.

and non emergency purposes. The 9-1-1 service ensures that people can readily access emergency services. It also provides a single telephone number that is easily dialled and remembered and can even be taught to young children.

The first stage of the three-stage approach is to establish a protocol for the development and implementation of a county-wide civic addressing system. This is to make sure that the chosen numbering system is compatible with a future, overall addressing system.

Stage two calls for consideration in 1997 and future budgets to establishing a civic addressing project based on the strategy contained in the addressing protocol.

Stage three is to consider implementation of 9-1-1, once the civic addressing nears completion.

The cost of developing a protocol is relatively low. It will help to establish a more accurate cost of civic addressing.

Models from other communities that have already established the service may be used in the development of a protocol in Haliburton County.

The report concludes: "The staged implementation process proposed will allow the expense of civic addressing to be projected over a reasonable budget period and may allow us to take advantage of future funding programs like the Infrastructure Works Program. The gradual implementation will also allow us to watch 9-1-1 unfold in other rural jurisdictions and may even allow us to take advantage of better technology by the time we are in a position to proceed with 9-1-1 itself.

The current 9-1-1 committee will proceed with the development of a protocol for civic addressing.

Stanhope citizen of the year

she has held for a few years now. She also does the office work for the Haliburton Highlands Literacy Centre, and is a member of the firefighter support team.

Says Johnson, laughing, "If your husband's on the fire department, you're automatically a volunteer."

"Volunteering, I spend more time than a person who goes to work. I also have a fire phone in my home and it ties you down."

Johnson, originally from Windsor ("a city girl," she says), is married to Dave, whose family has been in the area for generations. Her father-in-law, Alvin, is a former member of Stanhope council, and also served as chair of the rec committee.

"He's been a great source of help," she says, "especially this year, when I applied for a grant and got the money to do those walking trails for Stanhope through the summer youth program."

Johnson enjoys her involvement, but, she says, is serious about that letter of resignation, at least in the case of the Fun Day committee.

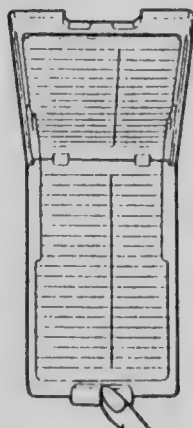

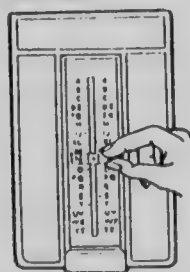

Says Johnson, "It's not something I would do again, not necessarily because I don't want to. It's just that even this third year, I've found it not boring, but repetitive. We need someone with fresh ideas. Not that I won't stay on the committee with them, but most people last one year, maybe two as chairperson. Three was a little too long, I think."

She says she expects things are going to get a lot more difficult for volunteer and charitable organizations in the coming year. "Everything is going to be hard this year," she says. "Everything. Fundraising — you're going to have to be very innovative to raise money. The cuts are everywhere."

Johnson also says the rec and Fun Day committees always need volunteers. "Anyone," she says, "is welcome. And any time."

Board of Education shelves fire prevention program

'Learn Not To Burn' program not fully utilized by schools

Anson, Hindon and Minden reeve Jeanne Anthon, in her Fire Services report to County Council, explained a disturbing situation regarding fire prevention education.

A program titled "Learn Not To Burn" has been provided to Haliburton County schools. The program has earned the praise of school boards that have implemented it, but the Haliburton board has chosen not to make use of the program. Principals of the schools have been enthusiastic about the program, but the board has rejected it, citing a "new emphasis on teaching basics" as the reason for declining the opportunity.

Two sets of materials (one from the Fire Marshals office and the other from a $10-million program by Canadian Tire Corporation) have been given to each school in the county. Unfortunately, the materials have been shelved, even though there is no further cost associated with their use.

Officials from the Fire Marshal's office are available to train teachers in the program. Instruction time is expected to take from 1.5 - 3 hours and could be scheduled for a teacher development day.

Fire departments have indicated a willingness to start the instruction process, but are frustrated by the board's decision to shelve the project.

On a positive note, the Smoke Detection Program in Haliburton County is a success. The distribution of smoke alarms is not only viewed as a step toward prevention and quick response, it has provided fire officials to speak one-on-one with the public.

It has been suggested that all municipal offices carry smoke alarms for sale to the public.

ASES uses program

Note: The Learn Not To Burn program has been utilized by at least one class at Archie Stouffer Elementary School in Minden. Student teacher Pam MacKinnon has been using the resources this fall. Friday, two members of the Stanhope Volunteer Fire Department, Steve Archibald and Shaun Perrin, spent an hour with Bonnie Berry's Grade 5 class (the class MacKinnon is helping with) answering questions and showing the students the apparatus. The firefighters brought one of the Stanhope fire trucks with them and the children had the opportunity to see how the controls work first-hand.

MacKinnon said she got approval from ASES principal Peter Forgrave to use the materials from the Learn Not To Burn program.

"The kids really liked it," MacKinnon said.

Snowmobilers should avoid roads

Submitted

There is a critical lesson to be learned from the tragic accident last Friday night near Bancroft, in which one youth lost his life when his snowmobile collided with a moving car. According to the Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs (OFSC), snowmobiles belong on snowmobile trails, not roads and highways.

"Less than 10 percent of all fatalities occur on the snowmobile trails where 90 percent of all riding occurs," said OFSC General Manager Ron Purchase, "so that crucial 10 percent of off-trail riding accounts for 90 percent of all snowmobiling fatalities."

According to a safety study recently released by the Ontario Snowmobile Safety Committee, on-road incidents account for 55 percent of early season injuries and 50 percent of all incidents involving teenage riders. Moreover, nine out of every ten snowmobiling fatalities occur after dark, often involving excess speed.

"Road dangers are compounded at night," states OFSC Safety Coordinator Rob Richardson. "Drivers are easily confused by the appearance of single headlights, especially when they appear unexpectedly, so riding roads is very risky."

Although it is legal to ride a motorized snow vehicle on many secondary roads, except where prohibited by local by-laws, and on provincial highways numbered 500 or higher, the OFSC does not recommend road running at any time. Snowmobiles have inferior traction and manoeuvrability on paved surfaces. Because of their low profiles, snowmobiles are also harder for drivers to see and rider sightlines over snowbanks, especially at driveways and intersections can be significantly impaired. Roads are particularly dangerous this season since heavy early snowfalls have left snowbanks piled too steep for sleds to climb in trying to avoid oncoming traffic.

Snowmobilers must obey the same rules of the road as drivers. This means riding on the far right side of the road, preferably on the shoulder. Where speeds are posted in excess of 50 kph for vehicles, snowmobilers must not exceed 50 kph. When speeds posted are less than 50 kph, speeds are restricted to 20 kph.

"Virtually every snowmobile accident is preventable," said Ontario Minister of Citizenship, Culture and Recreation, Marilyn Mushinski at the recent launch of the annual Ride Safe Ride Sober safety campaign in Toronto. "All participants have to do is remember some simple tips on safe snowmobiling: avoid travelling on lakes and rivers; stick to groomed trails; obey the speed limit; and ride according to conditions."

In the aftermath of this recent tragedy, the OFSC reminds all snowmobilers that groomed trails are the safest place to ride.

The OFSC is dedicated to providing leadership and support to member clubs to establish and maintain quality snowmobile trails which are used in a safe and environmentally responsible manner to further the enjoyment of organized snowmobiling.

Mushers gearing up for Derby

Professional sled-dog racers throughout North America are gearing up for the coming season. Teams and drivers began training in late fall. With the bumper crop of snow these past few weeks, they've moved into high gear, preparing for the challenge of the continent-wide circuit.

Training of sled dogs is done as carefully as that of any high-performance athlete. Mushers start their dogs off slowly with relaxed runs of short distances, giving the animals a chance to build their strength and endurance gradually. The training program follows a progressive schedule, starting with teams of eight to 12 dogs running about three miles over 15 to 20 minutes.

By the time the season starts, each dog will have run 300 to 500 miles — the driver much more! Now that the snow is finally deep enough to carry a sled, the team should be moving at an average of 18 to 20 miles an hour to be competitive.

During training, the mushers try the dogs out in various positions to find which one best suits them. By the time the season starts, the musher will have assessed the attributes of each dog in the kennel and chosen the ones that will make up the team. Only those that have proven they work best will actually race. But back-up dogs will also be needed during the season and they too must be in top physical and mental shape.

The Minden Techni-Cal Challenge, which will be held on January 20 and 21, is one of the toughest events on the professional sled-dog racing circuit — and one of the biggest paydays for the winners! Race sponsor Martin Pet Foods provides the purse of $25,100 — the largest purse anywhere for a limited-class event. The challenging race course, with its Main Street start and finish and its hilly bush trail, tests the mettle of dogs and drivers alike. This is the race where mushers get an idea of what the season ahead holds for them and whether their training program is going to pay off this year.

For spectators, the Minden Techni-Cal Challenge offers a great chance to see this exciting sport up close, whether in a front-row view of the action on Main Street or during a tour of the dog lot.

Salt is a versatile product

During the busy season we need all the help we can get. Did you know that salt was so versatile? It cleans, freshens, revives and tests. Here are just a few salt hints.

1. Salt water sprinkled between patio stones will prevent weeds or unwanted grass from growing there (and to think, I've been hacking at it with a knife all this time!)

2. Salt tossed on burning logs in your fireplace will discourage formation of soot in the chimney and will give the fire a bright yellow glow (but don't replace this one with your chimney sweeper.)

3. Sprinkle salt in sneakers or other canvas shoes to rid them of sweaty odor.

4. A strong salt solution poured down the kitchen sink drain will help keep it clean and prevent odor or grease build-up. (humm).

There's much more! Cleaning coffee pots, cleaning your face, testing eggs, keeping milk fresh. Well, give us a call if you would like to know more on the use of salt!

Stanhope Seniors Club hosts Christmas dinner

Members of the Stanhope Senior Citizens Club enjoyed their annual Christmas dinner on Monday December 11 at Lorelea Country Inn, Halls Lake. George Hamilton welcomed the participants to the scrumptious turkey dinner highlighted by a regal plum pudding with brandy sauce.

As guests mingled and enjoyed happy hour, they were entertained by Norman Clements at the piano.

After dinner, the new president, Al Dorman and wife Hazel, captivated the audience with several skits and songs.

The dinner marked the end of another busy year for the club and so before everyone departed, they gathered by the fireplace to exchange seasons greetings and sing Auld Lang Syne.

The next Stanhope Senior Citizens Club luncheon will be held January 8 at noon.

See you all in 1996!

NOTICE OF PUBLIC MEETING REGARDING PROPOSED ZONING BY-LAW AMENDMENT

TAKE NOTICE, that the Council of the Corporation of the Townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden will hold a PUBLIC MEETING to consider a proposed amendment to the Comprehensive Zoning By-law No. 86-26, as amended, pursuant to Section 34 of the Planning Act, R.S.O., 1990, as amended.

The purpose of the amendment is to change the zoning category on approximately .24 and .23 hectares (.58 and .57 acres, respectively) of land, located on the Bobcaygeon Road, as Part of Lot 6, Concession A, Township of Minden, from Rural (RU) Zone to Residential Fourth Density (R4) Zone, to fulfill a condition of Consent.

The effect of the zoning change is to permit a residential dwelling on each lot being created.

The land affected by the proposed amendment is shown on the Key Map as the "LANDS TO BE RE-ZONED".

The Public Meeting will be held at 9:30 a.m. on January 11, 1996 at the Municipal Council Chambers, 7 Milne Street, Minden, Ontario.

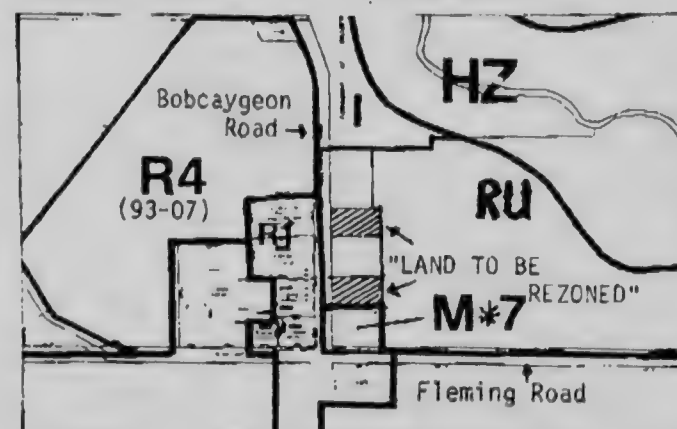

A copy of the proposed amendment is available for review at the Municipal Offices during regular office hours. Any person may attend the public meeting and/or make written or verbal representation either in support of, or in opposition to, the proposed zoning amendment.

Dated at the Township of Minden, this 18th day of December, 1995.

The value of hindsight

A unique trait of our species, one that is critical for our survival, has been our ability to reflect backward on times past in order to understand how we got here and project our thoughts ahead to the future to see where we may be heading.

Even though we are fixed in the reality of the present, our imaginations enable us to roam across time and to use that capacity to learn from the past and recognize options for the future.

A powerful thought exercise is to cast ourselves back in time and then ask, knowing the outcome in 1995, from this place in the past, is that what we want to aim for? To imagine an adequate answer, we have to be aware of what the world was like back then.

Consider 1945 as an example. The industrial world had just been pulled out of the Great Depression by war-driven economic growth. There were just over two billion people on Earth and most still lived in small towns; the population of Greater Vancouver had just reached 400,000 and Toronto a million. Most of the planet's vast forests and oceans were still untouched and pristine. Food was free of pesticides. The technological wonders of 1995 would have seemed dazzling in 1945. Television was in its infancy and technologies like oral contraceptives, satellites, transistors, computers and compact discs were yet to come. There seemed to be no limits to progress and the improvement of life for all people.

But in 1945, would we have wanted a society obsessed with consumption driven by the blare of advertising? Would we feel the cornucopia of consumer goods (25,000 items in department stores, over 200 breakfast cereals) was a reasonable trade for the breakdown of neighbourhoods and families, pollution of air and water, traffic congestion and the disappearance of wilderness and species? Would we have accepted a world increasingly divided along lines of wealth, the ranks of the impoverished swelling as a diminishing proportion of humanity already obscenely rich continued to demand more?

Many things we accept today would have shocked and outraged people in 1945. By putting ourselves back in time, we can see that with foresight, we could have achieved a very different future. All we needed was the WILL to act. Issues that are difficult and contentious today might have been avoided or far more easily solved had they been tackled when first anticipated, and at far less cost.

For example, had the United States acted to stabilize its population at the 1945 level, the country would have been completely self-sufficient in oil today! There would have been many other positive repercussions in terms of natural resources, crop lands, air and water quality and old growth forests.

Reflections

by David Suzuki

Steps taken in 1945 to design an economy controlled by national governments and based on full employment, frugality and product durability, would have had vast social and ecological ramifications. It would have been done with far less upheaval or adjustment than trying to do it today. We must remember that this juggernaut called the global economy that dictates so much of what our government and business leaders do today, is a very recent development.

When economists and politicians met in 1944 at Bretton Woods, New Hampshire, and established the World Bank and International Monetary Fund (IMF), they were just inventing and setting in motion forces that would come to dominate our lives. Yet way back in the '30s, one of the major players at Bretton Woods, economist John Maynard Keynes, had the prescience to warn that economies should remain profoundly national, not international, or else they would be beyond government control.

Today, world renowned scientists are telling us that the multiple issues of population growth, over-consumption, poverty, pollution, climatic change and wilderness destruction, increasingly impinge on our lives and render our political, economic and social structures evermore unstable and vulnerable to breakdown. Casting ahead, and assuming that we continue with business as usual, scientists, such as Nobel prize-winner Henry Kendall, population dynamicist David Pimentel, and modelling expert Donella Meadows, foresee horrific outcomes within the lifetimes of our children.

Every day that goes by without serious attempts to address and act on our predicament will exacerbate the unpredictably and gravity of the problems in the future. And even where solutions are still possible, every day that passes without action ensures that the cost of attempting to resolve them will escalate.

Most people alive today will still be around in 2020. Will they curse us for failing to act to avoid the problems they would face? We know a catastrophe looms, but what does it take to act on it and who is going to lead the way?

Acid rain report

The following report on acid precipitation was recorded at the Ministry of Environment and Energy site at Dorset.

This report covers the period November 1 to December 6:

Nov. 1: 16.0 mm of rain with a pH of 4.28
 Nov. 2: 5.6 mm of rain with a pH of 4.08
 Nov. 3: 10.1 mm of snow with a pH of 5.02
 Nov. 6: 12.2 mm of mixed snow and rain with a pH of 4.45
 Nov. 7: 2.2 mm of mixed snow and rain with a pH of 4.20
 Nov. 9: 2.3 mm of snow with a pH of 4.30
 Nov. 10: 18.0 mm of rain with a pH of 4.18
 Nov. 11: 51.4 mm of mixed snow and rain with a pH of 4.82
 Nov. 13: 5.3 mm of snow with a pH of 4.10
 Nov. 14: 6.0 mm of snow with a pH of 4.38
 Nov. 15: 3.6 mm of snow with a pH of 4.94
 Nov. 20: 6.8 mm of mixed snow and rain with a pH of 4.50
 Nov. 22: 6.0 mm of snow with a pH of 4.34
 Nov. 24: 2.0 mm of snow with a pH of 4.47
 Nov. 25: 2.2 mm of snow with a pH of 4.45
 Nov. 26: 2.0 mm of snow with a pH of 4.69
 Nov. 27: 29.2 mm of snow with a pH of 4.54
 Nov. 30: 7.2 mm of snow with a pH of 4.37
 Dec. 1: 1.8 mm of snow with a pH of 4.25
 Dec. 2: 5.0 mm of mixed snow and rain with a pH of 4.13
 Dec. 5: 11.7 mm of mixed rain and snow with a pH of 4.46
 Dec. 6: 7.2 mm of snow with a pH of 5.94
 (The quantity of precipitation is measured in its liquid form.)

Environmental damage to lakes and streams is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly receiving precipitation with pH readings of less than 4.7. pH readings less than 4.0 are considered serious.

We noticed on a drive up Hwy 35 that roofs have a great deal of snow on them. If you are cottage owners, it might be a good idea to have this checked out over the holidays.

***

Jack and Elva Milburn and Audrey Vick called on Dorothy Milburn with birthday wishes one evening recently.

***

Some folks on the not so well list are Frank Wright, Gladys Reid, Bill Ingram who is in Oshawa General, and Maud Coulter. Best wishes to all of you for a speedy recovery.

***

Some of us from Minden enjoyed the Stanhope Seniors' Christmas dinner at Lorelea on December 11. Added to our fun were Al and Hazel leading us in some musical antics, hard to do after the great meal. For the finale, we all joined hands and sang "Auld Lang Syne" to end a very pleasant evening.

***

Sorry to report that Grace Voycey, sister of Florence Robinson, had a fall and is in Orillia Hospital with a broken hip.

***

The Museum Committee held a special Christmas Carol Service on Sunday afternoon, December 10, with Rev. Peter leading the singing and Catherine Kellett at the organ. The service was held in the festively decorated Wee Kirk. With Zero weather, it was quite chilly but everyone thawed out in the Common Room with hot chocolate and goodies, while enjoying a good chat. Hopefully this event will continue and that December 1996 will be a bit warmer.

***

Guest on Sunday with Florence

Robinson and the Jack Shaw family was Bradley Robinson from Toronto.

***

Hi/Low bowling competitions have been going on at Carnarvon Bowl and the winners for Wednesday afternoon bowlers (mixed) were Bill Stead and Marg Hamilton with 417; Jean Stead and June Munns with 385 and Marie Thompson and Syd Lockhart with 289. For Thursday afternoon mixed league the winners were Marie Thompson and Bernice Gillies with 711; Bill Stead and Dick Cummins with 578 and Joyce Spensley and Betty Matthews with 436. The next competition will be the Black Tower starting January 8 for six weeks.

***

Sincere sympathy goes to the families and friends of the late Lilian Tompkins, J.M. Bird, Mrs. Ross Ferguson and Glen Johnston whose funerals were last week.

***

Audrey and Bob Vick visited his sister Mae Ralph in Peterborough one day last week.

It's Snow Time

So this is the Fall of 1995
I guess we are lucky to be alive
Every day we get more and more snow
Now where to put it, we really don't know.
I think it is enjoyed by a few,
The ones who are lucky to own a skidoo.
So let us be glad for a house that is warm
And pray that those who are travelling
Will come to no harm.
by Florence Robinson.

Minden Women's Institute December meeting

Minden Women's Institute meeting was held December 13 at the United Church hall. The meeting was a special time with everyone singing the Grace to begin. President Jean Cox introduced five guests, Zetta Little, Helen Cox, Pearl Barry, Shirley Cox and Elaine Anderson. Everyone joined in the enjoyable pot luck lunch which was very varied. After lunch the usual business took place then Roll Call with good wishes, verses and a solo by Nancy Gayton. Thirteen members were present and Jean Cox read, as her response, "Christmas at Sea" followed by Pearl Barry on her guitar singing "One Day at a Time" and "Because He lives". Decisions were made regarding donations from our ticket sales, $100 to Christmas boxes and $100 for the Lions Medical Centre.

The winners of the draw were #4 Lindsey Carradine of Crown Hill; and #133 Daisy McCallum of Aurora. Jean Cox thanked everyone for selling tickets.

Twenty-two cards had been sent since the last meeting and collections were taken for Pennies for Friendship, the Card Fund and the Church Donation. Happy Birthday was sung to Maud Coulter for December 15 and Shirley Cox for December 14. A gift exchange took place, with all getting something useful.

The next meeting will be held January 17 at 2 p.m. at the home of Jean Cox with current events and a spelling bee with all ladies welcome.

We all wish everyone in the Community all the best for 1996.

Jeanne Sears, P.R.O.

CARDS OF THANKS

The Minden Lions Club Committee for the Minden Community Santa Claus Parade on December 2, 1995 wish to say a sincere thank you in appreciation to all those who participated and contributed to the seventh annual Santa Claus Parade. Again, the financial support of the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 636, Minden Kinetite Club, Minden Lioness Club and the Minden Rotary Club was greatly appreciated. The efforts and contributions of Keaney Motors, Ridgeway Ford, Minden Amateur Radio Club, Minden Community Police Association, Royal Canadian Legion Branch 636, Minden Fire Department and Volunteers, Lutterworth Township, Townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden council, its employees for their co-operation in the many tasks that needed to be done. To Kawartha Dairy, Westside Jug City, Russ Duhaime Photographer, Perfect Prints and the Lioness Ladies for their great work for the children's enjoyment at the fire hall. Extra thanks to the Haliburton Highlands Silver Flute Band for their excellent performance as out only marching band this year and for their generous giving of time and talent at the fire hall at parade ending. Thanks to The Times of Minden for their support and coverage of the parade. Of course, to our Santa Claus, once again bringing joy and laughter to the children and people of Minden, a very special thank you for your appearance at this time of the year.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ONE AND ALL.
R.H. for Minden's Lions Club.

CARDS OF THANKS

I would like to thank the Conservation Officers who worked so quickly and thoroughly to clear me of any wrongdoing in the 1995 deer hunting season. I cannot, however, say the same for the UNreliable source that called you. They drove over my fence, destroyed my trees and trespassed on my farm. Property that is clearly posted "No Trespassing!"

I have nothing to hide and all they had to do was ask me. I guess the possibility of a $1,000 reward supersedes common courtesy to some people.
Neil Hughes,
R.R.#3, Minden.
P.S. Congratulations Kevin, he was a beauty!

AT REST

TOMPKINS, Lillian Gladys

Peacefully at the Minden Hospital on Saturday, December 9, 1995. In her 99th year. Beloved wife of the late Ernest Tompkins. Dear mother of Muriel and her husband Ossie Mark of R.R. #3, Minden and John and his wife Shirley Tompkins of Clovis, California. Loving grandmother of Robert, Douglas, Jason, Devon and four great-grandchildren. Fondly remembered by her many nieces and nephews. Dear sister of the late Edith, Hilda, William and Albert.

Mrs. Tompkins rested at the Gordon A. Monk Funeral Home, 127 Main Street, Minden from 2-4 p.m. Tuesday. Then to Swackhammer, Blachford and Wray Funeral Home, 1341 Main Street W., Hamilton for visitation from 12 noon Thursday, December 14 until time of the funeral service at 2 p.m. Interment Woodland Cemetery, Hamilton.

JOWETT, Ralph Anthony
(Resident of West Guilford, Ontario)

Peacefully at his residence on Thursday, December 14, 1995 in his 69th year. Beloved husband of Donna Bonnic. Loving father of Thomas and his wife Janice of Toronto, Kitty Aggett of Richmond Hill, Bronwen (Mrs. Jim Zahos) of Toronto, Peter of Vancouver and Susan of Minden. Fondly remembered by 12 grandchildren. Dear brother of Maureen of Toronto, Katherine (Lorna) Pearce of West Guilford and Phillip of Yorkshire, England. Predeceased by his brothers Rupert and Thomas and sister Alice. Also remembered by many nieces and nephews. At Ralph's request there will be no visitation or funeral service. As expressions of sympathy, donations of the Canadian Cancer Society would be appreciated by the family. Funeral arrangements have been entrusted to the Haliburton Community Funeral Home, Hwy. #118, Haliburton, Ontario (705)457-9209.

IN MEMORIAM

BAGSHAW - In loving memory of:
Father Thomas, December 17, 1968
Mother Annie, January 5, 1966
Brother Thomas, February 26, 1950
Brother Alick, February 27, 1989.
You all taught us how to live, laugh and love,
How to be proud and dignified,
Not a day goes by
Without a mention of your names
Or the time we spent together.
Lovingly remembered by Clara, Alvin and families.

IN MEMORIAM

ROWDEN - In loving memory of our dear son and brother who left us December 26, 1988. A thousand prayers won't bring you back
We know, because we prayed,
Neither will a thousand tears
We know because we cried.
The hardest thing in life to bear,
Is to want you and you are not there Jr.,
With broken hearts we whisper low
God bless you, we love you so.
Look after him God, don't leave him alone
For this is his 7th year away from home.
Lovingly remembered and deeply missed,
Mom, sisters, brothers and their families.

McLEAN, Jean Eleanor - In loving memory of my beloved wife who left us December 20, 1987.
Since you've gone first and I remain,
One thing I'll ask of you;
Walk slowly down that long lone path,
Where soon I'll follow you.
I want to know each step you take,
That I may take the same;
For someday, down that lonely road,
You'll hear me call your name.
Sleep gently Jeannie, until we meet again. I love you and I miss you.
Mac.
